The EGC Business School Network

The Ecoles de Gestion et de Commerce that make up the EGC Network are true business schools. Created by and for businesses, the EGC Schools are run by the local Chambers of Commerce and Industry and recognised by the French government.

When recruiting students, the EGC Schools select candidates whose profiles truly correspond to the needs of businesses. Students receive individual coaching throughout their studies in order to make the most of their potential and produce creative and responsible managers. Thanks to our link with local Chambers of Commerce, EGC students make numerous contacts in the business community.

All of our schools operate under the European Credit Transfer System (ECTS) and the majority participate in the European Union's Erasmus Programme.

■ The EGC degree

Our schools offer a 3-year degree course in business studies. Our goal is to turn out versatile, operational graduates ready to take on professional responsibilities in a variety of fields.

To achieve this objective, our students are in constant contact with the business world, primarily via several in-company training periods including at least three months abroad.

These placement periods offer students the opportunity to put what they have learnt into practice. By the time they graduate, our students have already spent nearly a year in companies.

Studying at an EGC School guarantees students rapid access to employment and successful integration into the business world. Our after-course job placement rate reaches 94% within 6 months of leaving. Our graduates make fast progress in marketing, selling techniques, sales administration, purchasing, distribution, banking and international trade.

■ The course

Students study two or three languages: English for all students, plus a choice of Spanish, German, Italian, Portuguese...

Economics, accountancy, law, import/export, international trade and many other business-related components make up the curriculum. In addition, individual schools set up special courses related to the needs of their local economy.

All EGC students take part in a learning experience abroad. For most schools, this experience takes the form of a work placement in a foreign company, which is essential for the students to gain experience of business management and organisation in an international context. The international placement improves both business and linguistic skills.

The EGC Business School Network

- 30 mainland and overseas campus
- 3 000 students a year
- 16 000 former students
- 100 permanent lecturers
- 90 school administration staff

Each international placement is the result of a carefully constructed individual project. While our students gain a great deal from these internships, they also make a real contribution to host companies. That is why all foreign placement projects are studied and approved by each school to make sure they are adapted to the student's linguistic and business skills. Our students have carried out placements in large well-known corporations as well as in small and medium sized companies.

Foreign study partnerships

Some students choose to do several placements abroad, and/or to participate in partnerships with European Universities and Business Schools, including Portsmouth University in England, Dublin Business School in Ireland, the Huesca Trade School in Spain, the Hochschule of Furtwangen in Germany...

EGC students : self-starters

Besides their official internships, EGC students carry out a number of real-life projects such as market surveys for local companies, event organisation, and involvement in humanitarian activities. In class, they participate in many group projects, thus getting a good idea of the challenges of team work
